

Squaring the Rectangle

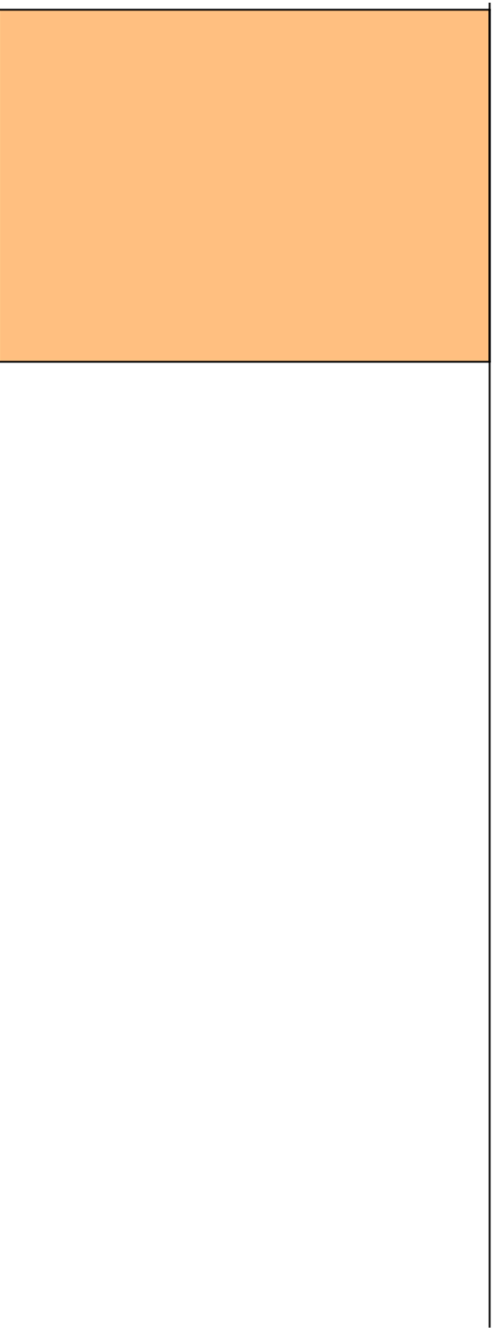

Square

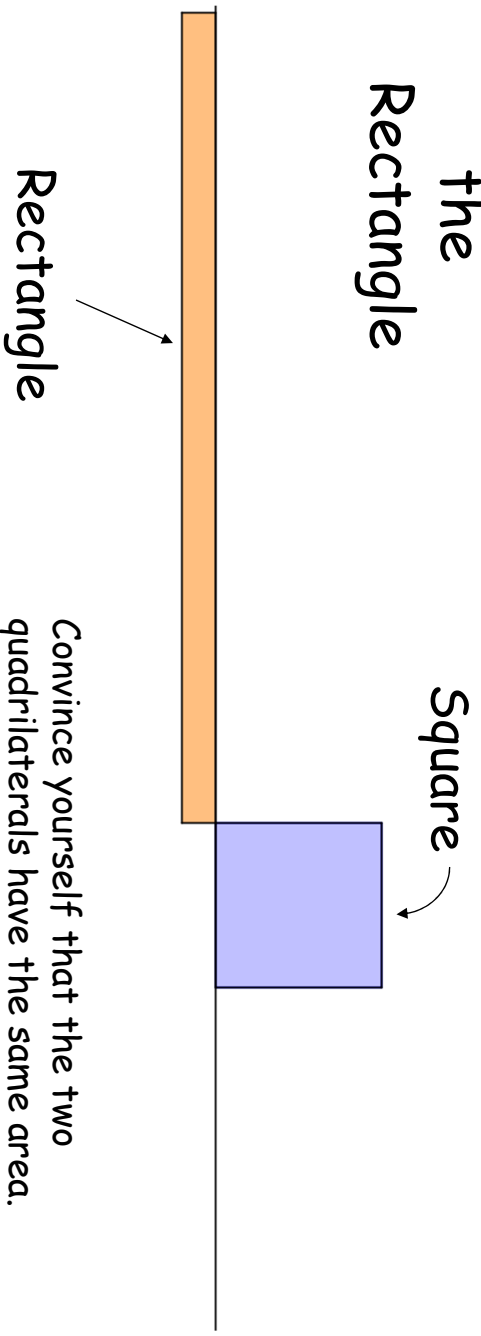

Rectangle

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

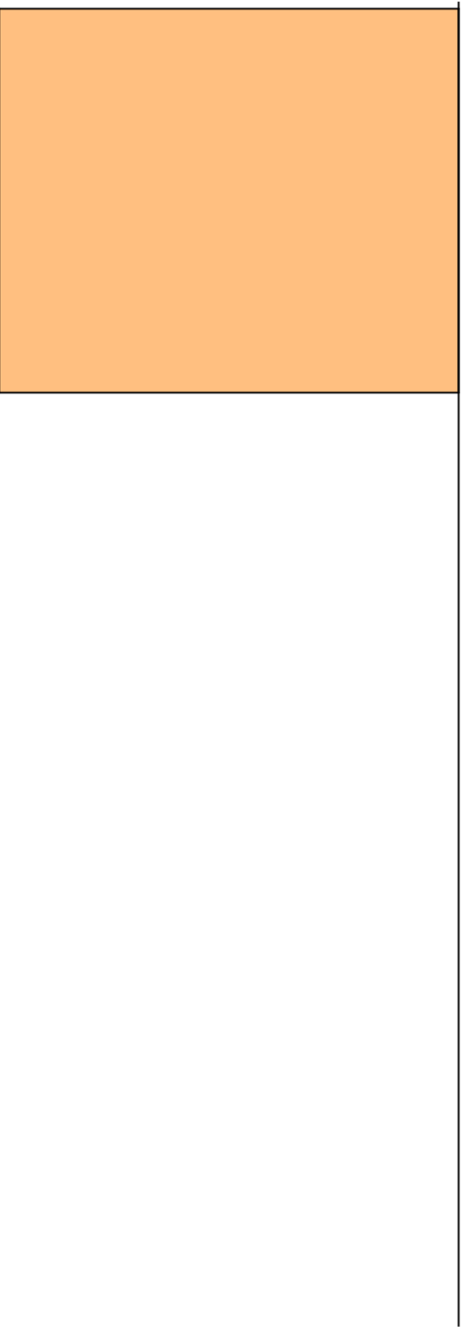

Squaring the Rectangle

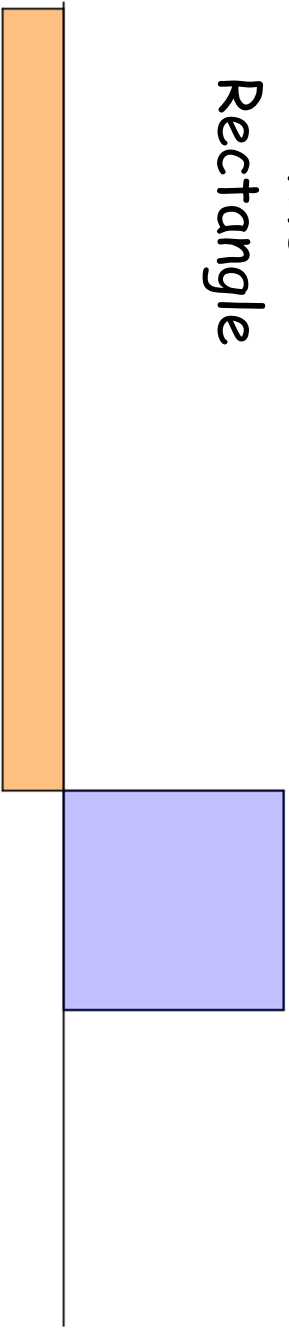

Convince yourself that the two quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only a pencil, compass and straight edge.

Squaring
the Rectangle

Square

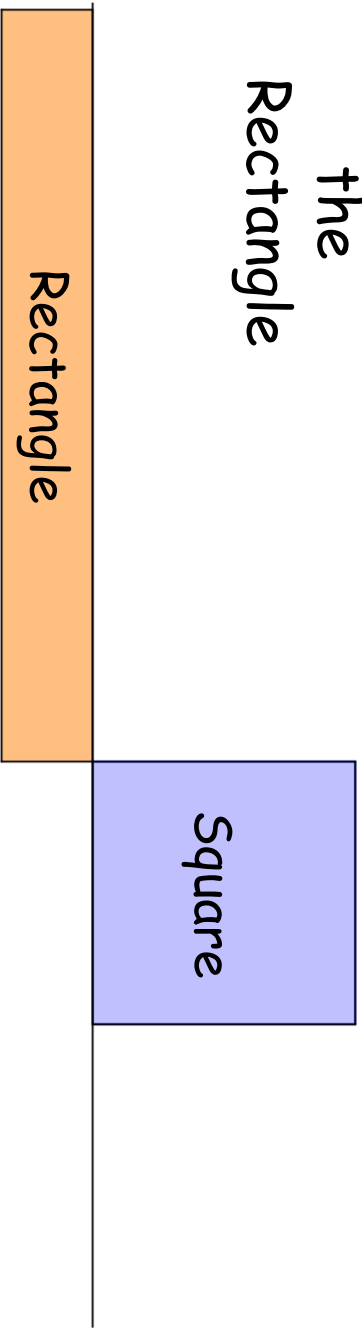

Rectangle

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

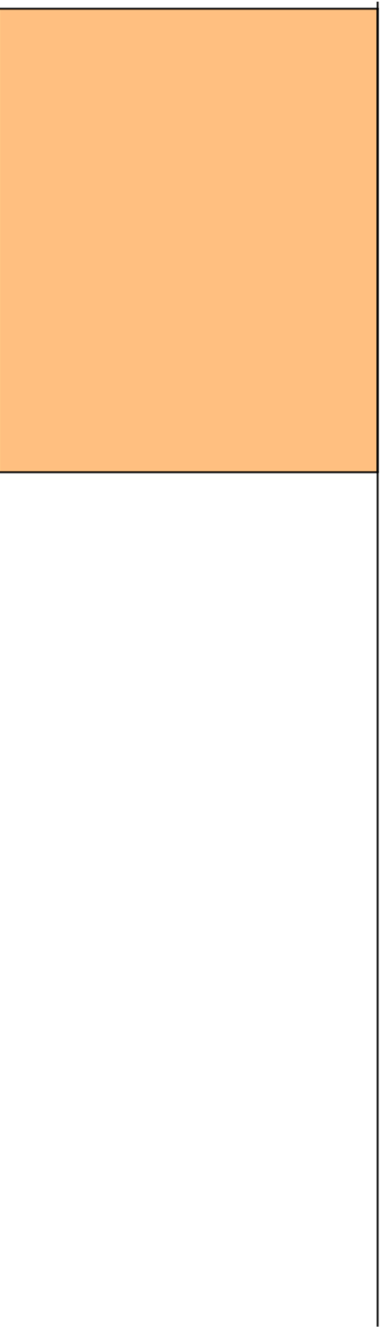

Squaring the Rectangle

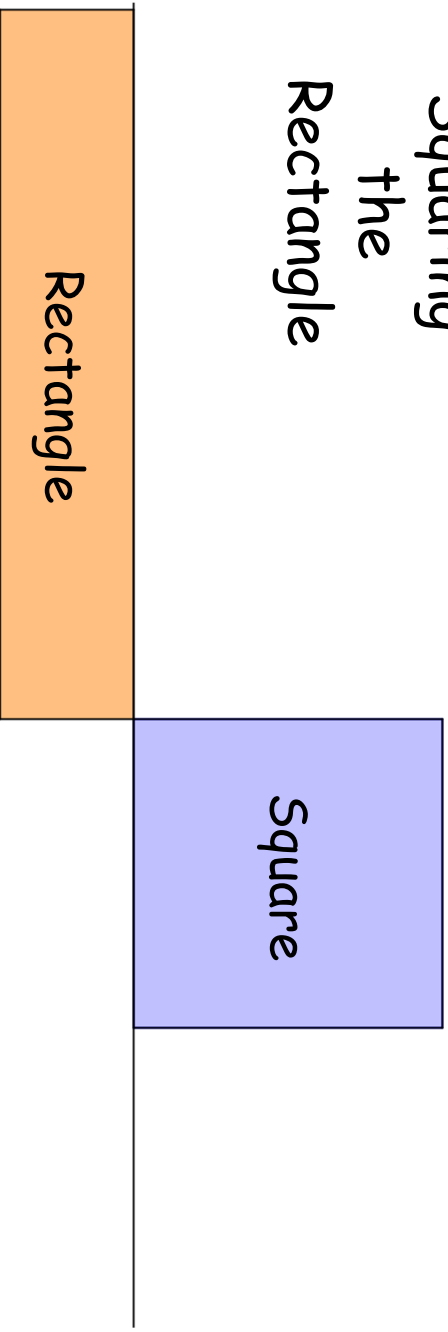

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

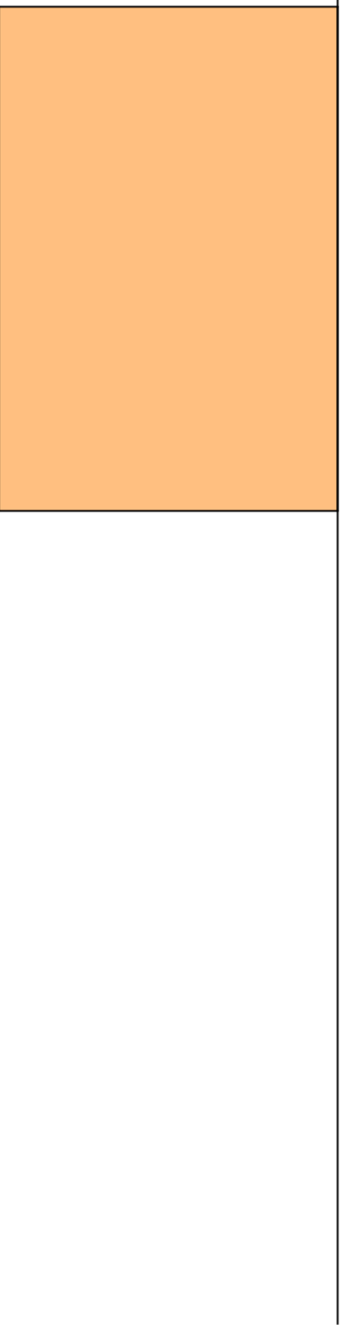

Squaring the Rectangle

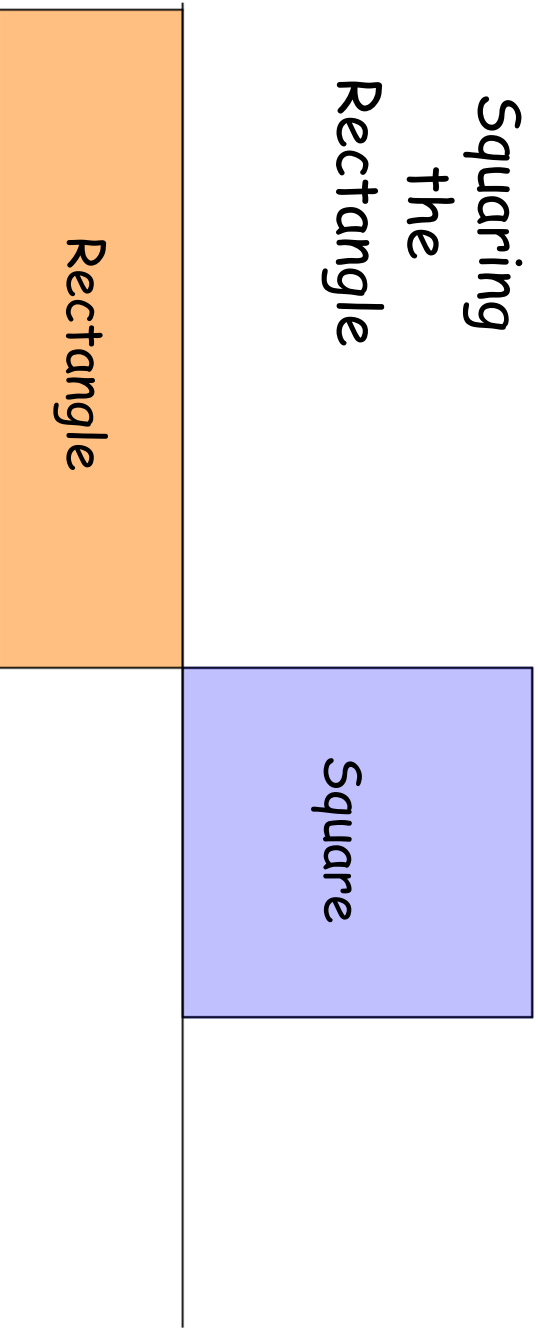

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

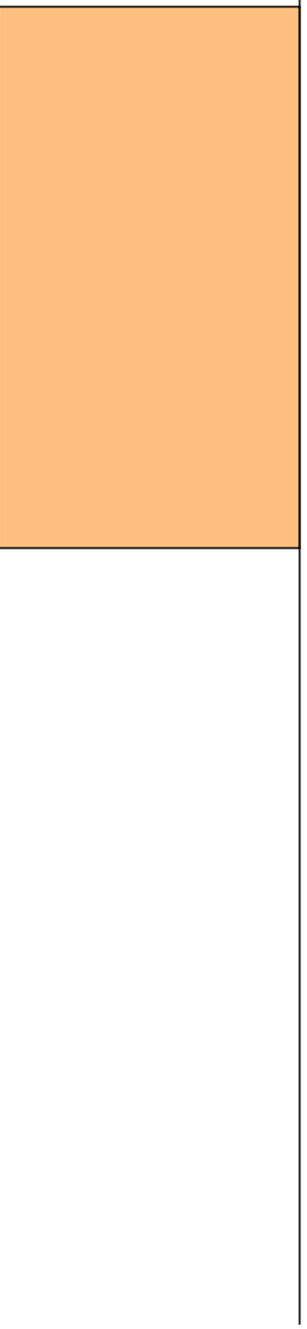

Squaring the Rectangle

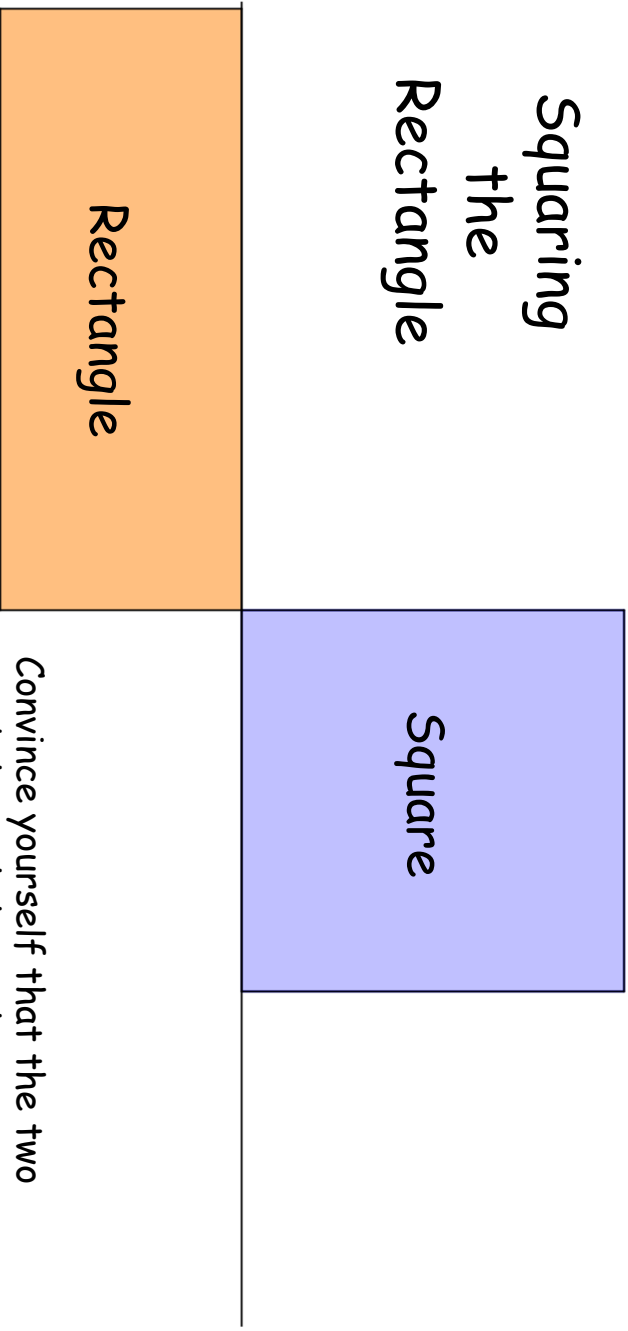

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

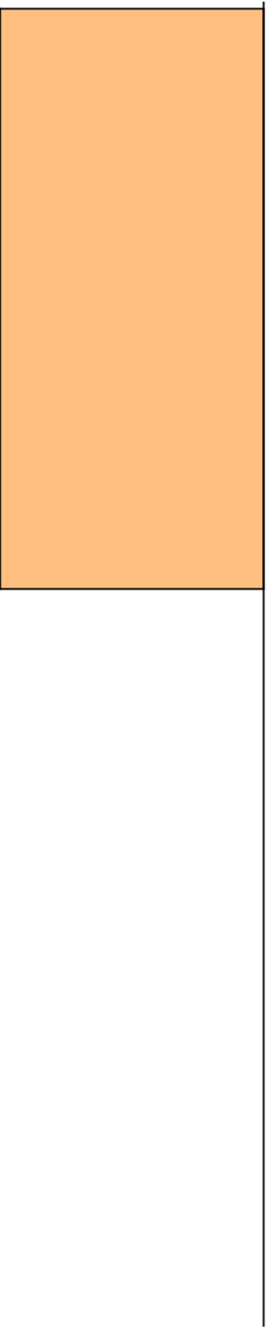

Squaring the Rectangle

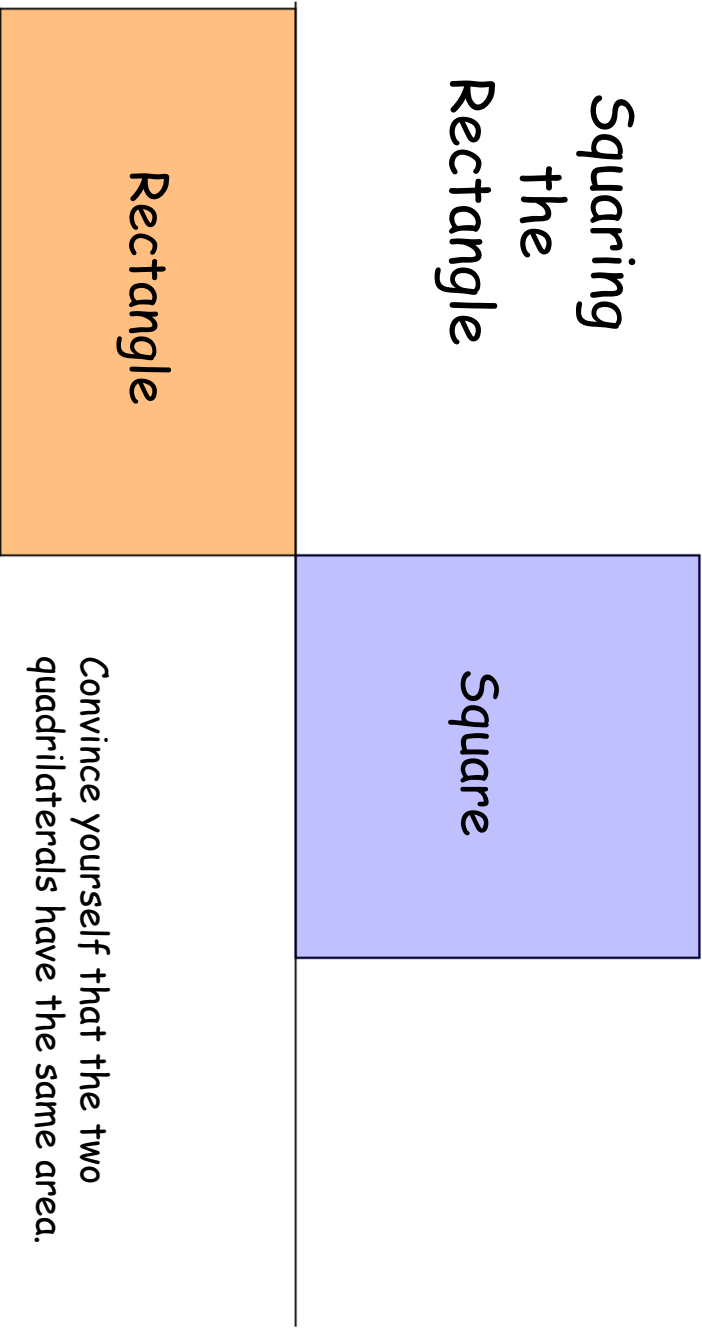

Convince yourself that the two quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only a pencil, compass and straight edge.

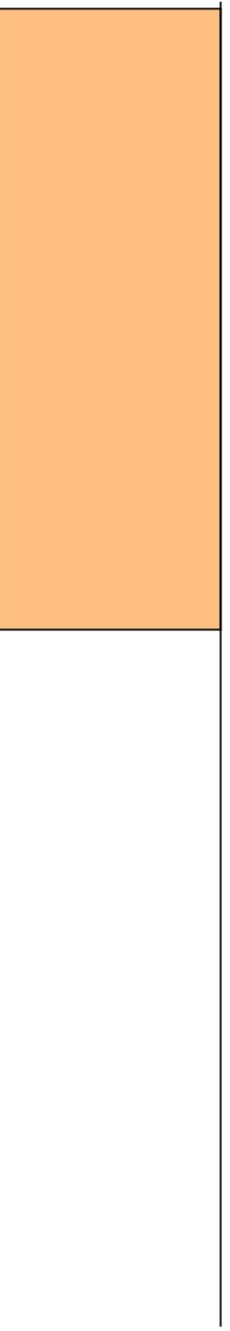

Squaring the Rectangle

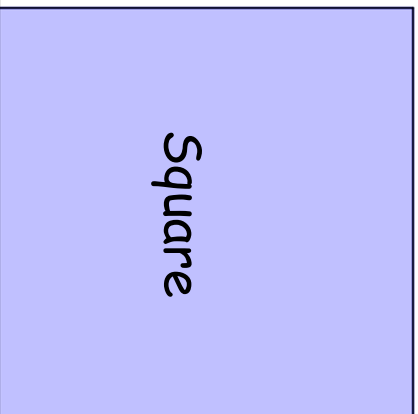

Convince yourself that the two quadrilaterals have the same area.

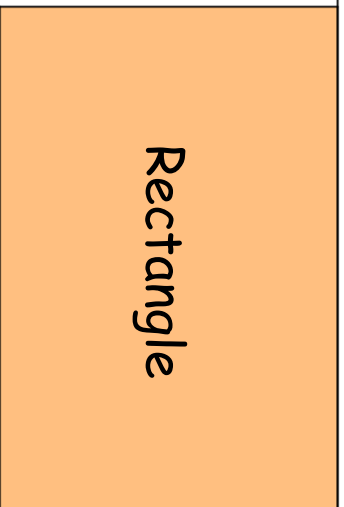

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only a pencil, compass and straight edge.

Squaring the Rectangle

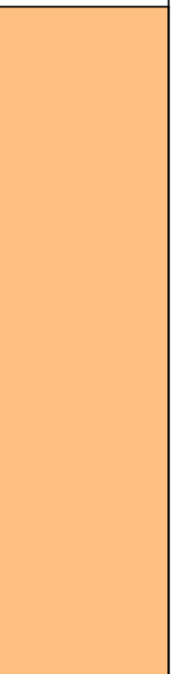

Square

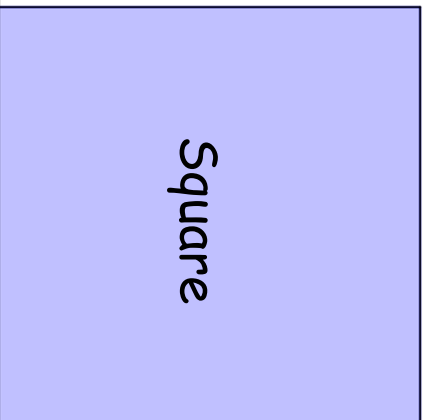

Rectangle

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

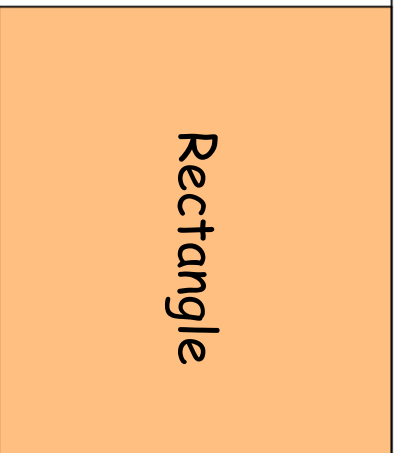

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

Squaring the Rectangle

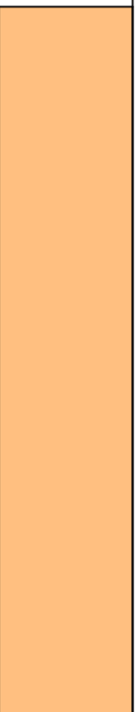

Square

Rectangle

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only
a pencil, compass and straight edge.

Squaring
the Rectangle

Square

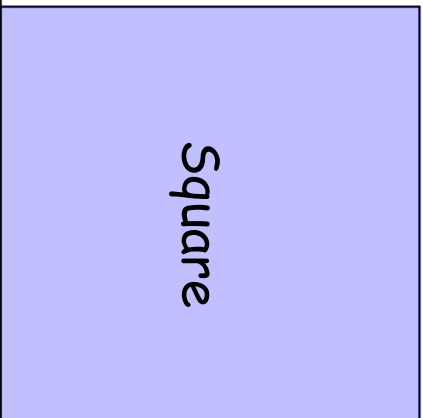

Rectangle

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

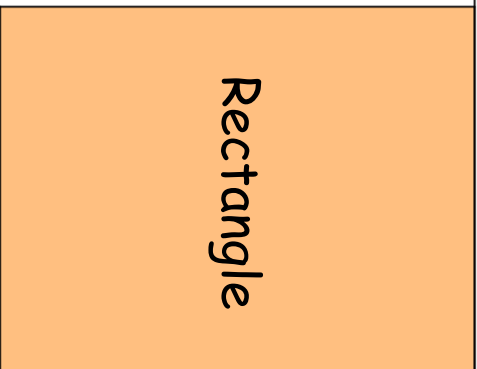

Construct the square with area equal to the rectangle below using only a pencil, compass and
straight edge.

Squaring the Rectangle

Square

Rectangle

Convince yourself that the two
quadrilaterals have the same area.

Construct the square with area equal to the
rectangle below using only a pencil, compass and
straight edge.

